It was a fun town. I bet if your were there for your rodeo that would be a lot more going on.

Stay here if you're visiting the painted hills!

OK cow town, only town to stop over in the wide expanse of central Oregon.

John Day is awesome! I would visit it for Strawberry Mountain Hiking as well as The Painted Hills which is only an hour away.

Had everything a family would need for a road trip. Not much for shopping in this community based town but nice, friendly people. Big surprise was the best tenderloin I've ever had but i can't remember the name of the restaurant.

Motel gave 10% off card referral to local restaurant. We got there, couldnt get waited on. Menu on table gave prices. We got disgusted & went down the street to a Bar & Grill. Immediate pleasant service, better menu & lower prices.

Beautiful scenery in the area but nothing else there but farmland. Very small town. Loved the peace and quiet there.

The food and service at Snaffel Bit was amazing. Reccomend everyone to eat there if your in town or even just passing through. You will not be disappointed!

2/5 - Disappointing

We went to see the fossil beds and the painted hills. Signage made it very difficult to find the fossil beds and hiking trails . Signs were on the side roads, we didn't see them until we turned around and started back.
